White House Forms Background At GW

By STEVE GUBACK

WASHINGTON—George Washington University's baseball team plays its home games on a field which has no stands and no fences—and yet it may be the most expensive piece of real estate in baseball.

The Colonials play virtually in the backyard of the White House and in the shadow of the Washington Monument, a setting that's likely to dazzle a visiting team long before Coach Bill Reinhart's pitchers get the chance.

GW may be the only club that's had a game delayed while one of President Kennedy's helicopters swoops in low for a landing on the White House lawn. And a well-tagged foul ball here could just as easily bounce off a diplomat's portfolio as land in the catcher's glove.

"I don't think anybody anywhere has a field like it," says Reinhart, a cigar-smoking ex-Navy commander who has been at GW since 1935. His record includes 4 Southern Conference pennants in the past 6 years.

Reinhart says that playing in such historical surroundings has both its advantages and disadvantages. "Coaches like to bring their teams here," he says. "The baseball schedule is the easiest one to make."

Disadvantages? Tourists, government workers and the lack of fences in the outfield.

It's not uncommon for a troupe of tourists, intent on sightseeing, to rush pell-mell across the outfield. Or for government workers to do the same as they seek a short-cut when their workday is through. "Some times," laughs GW Athletic Director Bob Faris, "we've got 20 or 30 extra people on defense."

The advent of the presidential helicopter has presented an additional problem. The low-flying whirly-birds often kick up dust or cause delays, but Reinhart won't complain about that. His son, Bill, Jr., an Army officer, was one of the helicopter pilots for President Eisenhower. "He'd just lean out and wave as he went by," Reinhart laughs.

GW has been playing at the Ellipse, as the field is called, for longer than Reinhart can remember. At one time, the Colonials also played some of their home games at Griffith Stadium, but scheduling conflicts with the Washington American League team caused a permanent arrangement at the Ellipse.

GW books 1 of the 4 diamonds—there are 2 hardball and 2 softball layouts—from the District of Columbia's Department of Recreation. "We try to avoid scheduling home games," Reinhart says, "on days when they are going to have a parade. We've found it best that way."

As far as Reinhart knows, his club has never played before the president, but all the chief executive would have to do is peer out of his back window for a long-range look.

USC Keeps Lofty Perch Atop CB Poll

4 Other Clubs Wage Torrid Battle For No. 2 Position

By DON CARSON

TUCSON—Strong Southern California, undefeated since the last poll, easily held on to its No. 1 spot atop COLLEGIATE BASEBALL's latest rating of the nation's powers.

The Trojans roared past Stanford twice and UCLA 3 times to run their season's record to 31-6-2 and pick up a total of 482 points.

While the Men of Troy grabbed off 34 first place votes, 5 other clubs were also getting the nod for the top berth and 4 of them were nudged in tightly in the Nos. 2, 3, 4 and 5 positions.

Fresno State (30-6) held onto second, but dropped in first place votes as Arizona (37-7), Oklahoma State (16-0) and Texas (16-1) waged a battle with the Bulldogs of Pete Beiden.

Arizona's Wildcats, the first team to qualify for the playoffs, took 3 of 4 games from state rival Arizona State to move up from fifth to third.

Oklahoma State kept its loss column unmarred and stayed in fourth and Texas, losing to TCU, fell from third to fifth.

Filling out the top 10 were Florida State (19-5), Minnesota (17-6), Arizona State (32-9), Wake Forest, (24-4) and California (24-7).

Florida State, idle in recent weeks, closes out its season this week.

Minnesota, the defending national champion, is coming strong after early season, spring training losses and has pulled atop the Big 10 standings. The Gophers were 14th in the last poll. This time they were helped by 2 first place votes.

Arizona State, losing out in its bid for a playoff berth, fell from sixth, while Atlantic Coast leader Wake Forest dropped a notch to No. 9.

California was seventh 2 weeks ago.

Several new faces appeared in the second 10.

Cincinnati, under Coach Glenn Sample, rolled to a 12-2 record, a commanding lead in the Missouri Valley Conference and neared the automatic playoff berth that awaits the MVC victor. Previously, Cincy had not been rated.

Three eastern schools, getting into fast action finally after a break in the weather, began getting some votes.

They were Connecticut, No. 15; St. John's, No. 16; and Boston College, No. 19; and LSU, winning the Western division of the Southeastern Conference, took the No. 18 position.

In showdown games of the past 2 weeks, Arizona eliminated Arizona State from playoff contention; USC knocked UCLA from any title chance; Michigan and Indiana split a pair; Minnesota edged past Indiana in a singleton; and Texas and Baylor (15-3) were rained out.

Missouri, which held down the 10th spot 2 weeks ago, tumbled out of the top 20 as the Tigers absorbed their third Big 8 defeat.

Balloting in COLLEGIATE BASEBALL's exclusive poll is by coaches in every section of the nation. Points are awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis.

. . . Barry Tradition Carries On

The ironies of baseball—and life—were never better exemplified than last month.

Holy Cross' beloved Jack Barry, dean of college baseball coaches, passed away at Worcester, Mass. (see page 6).

Meanwhile, 45 miles down the pike at Boston, another Jack Barry (no relation), appeared blossoming as rookie coach at M.L.T. (see page 8).

Pitchers, Home Run Hitters Making District 7 Headlines

By PAUL MOLONEY

GREELEY, Colo.—Pitchers and home run hitters are playing the major roles in the 1961 District 7 baseball races now that the weather has relinquished some of its authority.

Brigham Young has won the Skyline Conference western division championship, thanks to the 1-2 pitching punch of Bob Mosteller and Bob Noel.

The tandem pitched the Cougars to 4 vital victories over Montana late in April. Noel, a senior, hurled a perfect game, 8-0, in the first 2-game series. In the second series, he turned back the Grizzlies, 15-2. Mosteller scored 8-2 and 6-1 triumphs.

They shared Brigham Young's first 8 victories in western division play.

In the Rocky Mountain region the team with a pair of capable pitchers goes a long, long way. And the Cougars could continue to profit with Mosteller and Noel.

Brigham Young won the district championship in 1958 but could not compete in the College World Series. Their status for the district playoffs is not yet determined.

Other pitchers making themselves respected in the district are New Mexico's Gig Brummell, Wyoming's Pat House and Colorado State College's Jerry Maglia. Brummell has won 4 straight games for Skyline eastern division leading New Mexico. He has compiled a respectable 3.40 earned run average and is certain to get the call when Wyoming and the Lobos meet for the division championship this Friday and Saturday at Laramie.

Wyoming by the same token has been given a big assist by House in its title bid. House has been a consistent winner (3-0) in eastern division play. He pitched Boise JC into the national tournament a year ago and was named a Juco All-American.

Maglia, a 142-pound lefthander, threw considerable cunning into his pitches April 28 at Western State College. He struck out 20 in a 24-3 9-inning victory to set a new school strikeout record against collegiate opposition.

His coach, Pete Butler, uses Maglia against the opposition's pitching ace, and the Hoehne, Colo., senior has responded with a 4-1 won-lost record, his only defeat 2-0 by Arizona.

The district's top teams include at least one man in the lineup that hits the home run often.

Most notable among the home run hitters is Colorado State College junior Julie Yearling, a 6-foot-1 lefthand hitter. Yearling has already tied the school homer record with 8 and has 11 games to play. Some of his prodigious blasts have carried 450 or more feet.

Hitting just ahead of Yearling in the batting order is stocky 5-foot-9 John Koehler, who tops the team in runs batted in with 35 in

Rutgers Star Reaches First In 3.3 Seconds

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J.—Rutgers' baseball team is laying claim to having the fastest runner in college baseball, and maybe beyond that.

He's Ed Griffiths, senior shortstop, who on a cold, windy day recently was clocked in 3.3 seconds going to first base on a bunt. The clocking was by a competent observer, too—a Detroit scout.

What makes the clocking all the more amazing is that Griffiths bats right-handed.

"I can hardly believe it," said "Rabbit" Jacobson, who scouts the New Jersey area for the Tigers. But there, perched safely on first after having dropped a hard bunt right at the third baseman, was Griffiths.

The Scarlet co-captain's speed is no secret. Last season, he stole 19 bases in 17 games to gain the national base-stealing championship with a percentage of 1.12 a game.

His speed is responsible to a great degree for the .471 batting average he compiled last year, good for third in the nation. He beats out an average of almost one bunt or slow hopper a game.

Koehler has slugged 5 homers and has driven in 8 and 6 runs in separate games.

Wyoming opened the season with a completely new outfield. Basketballer Mike Rawson was installed in left field, and since has been hitting with records in mind.

He has smashed 5 home runs and is hitting at a .453 clip. He had 44 total bases on his 29 hits in Wyoming's first 18 games. And his Skyline eastern average is .579.

Kent Lammers, who sat in the shadows last year while John Kuenzel was winding up a great career at the Air Force Academy, has taken his rightful place in the sun this year.

Lammers, like Rawson a basketball player, is hitting at .474 and has an .825 slugging percentage. In 57 at bats he has hit safely 27 times, which include 6 doubles, 4 triples and 2 homers for 47 total bases.

Kuenzel in 1957 topped the nation with a .891 slugging average.

Although out of the Skyline eastern division title picture, the Denver Pioneers have laid claim to third place thanks to hockey All-American Jerry Walker.

A lefthand batter, who looks somewhat like Gil McDougald at the plate, Walker is among the Skyline eastern division leaders with a .444 mark and has an overall .361 BA. Many of his hits have been for extra bases.

Adams State College's bid for the Rocky Mountain Conference title has been led by 2 slugging veterans Jim Workman and Jim Colbert.

But who might be the district's top hope for All-American honors? Bob Preisendorf, Colorado State College's 5-foot-7 second baseman. Defensively, Preisendorf was All-American caliber in 1960 but his batting average hovered at .300-.290. This year he is only 3 points under .400 and fielding equally well.

He has taken charge of a "rookie" infield to make CSC a top challenger for the district championship. The other bidders for the championship are Brigham Young, Wyoming, New Mexico, Adams State College and the Air Force Academy.

CSC Catchers Battered

GREELEY, Colo.—They're hard on catchers in the Rocky Mountains this year.

First John Groninger, Colorado State College's starting catcher, suffered a double fracture of his leg in a collision at home plate with Wyoming's Chuck Clare on April 22.

George Dukes, CSC's No. 2 backstop, moved into the starting slot. Then in a May 2 game with Colorado Mines, Dukes went sliding into third base. When the dust cleared Dukes lay grimacing on the field. He had fractured his ankle.

Veteran CSC Coach Pete Butler is keeping his fingers crossed. He converted his shortstop, Jim Lochner, and he hopes that will end his catching worries for the season.

BYU Cinches Skyline Western Division Title

GREELEY, Colo.—The Brigham Young Cougars Saturday wrapped up the 1961 Skyline western division baseball championship by sweeping a doubleheader from Utah State, at Logan.

The wins were Brigham Young's 9th and 10th straight in division play. The Cougars have only 2 games left to play with dethroned Utah.

Salmon Pitches No-Hitter As Tars Take FIC Lead

WINTER PARK—The Rollins baseball team moved into first place in the Florida Intercollegiate Conference after defeating Stetson University 4-1 while competitor Florida Southern lost its second game.

The Tars with a 6-3 FIC record were out in front of Southern with a 3-2 mark.

Rollins' last game was sparked by sophomore Ken Salmon's no-hitter performance for his fifth victory of the season. It was Rollins' 14th win against 11 defeats.

Salmon struck out 8 and walked only 1, retiring the Stetson Hatters in order in 5 of the 9 innings. Besides the seventh, when the Hatters picked up an unearned run on 2 Rollins errors, he was in trouble only once.

Mason-Dixon Leaders

BALTIMORE—Baltimore University and Randolph-Macon are the current division pacemakers in the Mason-Dixon Conference. Baltimore has a 5-0 northern division mark and is 9-2 overall. R-M is 5-1 in the southern and 9-3 overall.

Meanwhile Wyoming and New Mexico face the Skyline eastern division's championship battle Friday and Saturday at Laramie. The teams enter this weekend's play with 7-1 won-lost records. Following the series with Wyoming, the Lobos conclude their northern trip Sunday with a twin bill at Colorado State University.

Wyoming moved into the leadershiptie last weekend by beating Colorado State University twice.

Colorado State College moved in front of the Rocky Mountain Conference baseball race for the 19th straight year by sweeping games last Friday and Saturday against its chief rival Adams State.

CSC now has a 10-0 RMC record while Adams State is 9-1.

Dodgers Sign Berrier

HUNTINGDON, Pa.—The Los Angeles Dodgers have given Bill Berrier, former Juniata baseball and football star, a 1961 baseball contract and have assigned him to Atlanta in the Class AA Southern Assn.

MIT No Longer 'Last' In GBL Race'

By GEORGE SULLIVAN

BOSTON, Mass.—The gag about Massachusetts Institute of Technology being "first in outer space, last in the Greater Boston League race" is dead.

Surprising Tech looms a heavy favorite to grab the league's "Most Improved" honors. What's more, its rookie coach—former New York Giant Pitcher Jack Barry—ranks as a leading candidate for "Coach of the Year" laurels.

The Cambridge school, a perennial academic champ but GBL tailender, is tied for second place. It boasts a 2-1 league record, a 6-3 mark overall.

The 2-1 figure may appear unimpressive. But in the short-scheduled GBL, and with 2 "threats" already saddled with 3 defeats each, MIT appears a good bet for a first division finish.

Perhaps most impressive, the plucky Engineers—picked a customary last in preseason polls—have accomplished league success the hard way. In awesome succession, they upset Tufts and Northeastern, ranked second and third respectively by the crystal ball set.

Powerhouse Boston College, undefeated in pursuit of its second straight league title, administered MIT its only drubbing of the season. The Eagles walloped Tech, 11-0.

In non-league action, the Technicians dispatched Adelphi, Howard, Johns Hopkins and Bates while losing to Stevens.

Impressive, too, is the fact that Tech's lineup is composed primarily of sophomores clustered around junior captain George (Mickey) Haney of Butte, Mont. Haney, a versatile pitcher-infielder, has a 4-1 mound record.

Thus Barry, University of Michigan product who compiled a 2-3 record for the Giants during fragments of the 1946 and 1947 seasons, discovers himself squarely in the limelight.

BC Coach Eddie Pellagrini sums up the consensus of opinion among GBL observers. Pelly observes: "Jack is doing an outstanding job, really outstanding. And his success not only benefits MIT, but the league as well."

Barry's "Midas Touch" isn't confined to baseball at MIT. He promoted similar revolt for the basketball team as well.

In his second year as hoop former Air Corps major piloted Tech to an 11-8 record—the school's best in recent history.

Now, after a season as frosh coach, Barry has moved in as varsity baseball tutor, succeeding Scotty Whitelaw who resigned to become assistant to Asa Bushnell with the ECAC.

And already Jack has his pupils considering the projection of baseballs as well as rockets into outer space.

Norm Shepard has never had the luxury of an "ace" pitcher in 7 years as Harvard coach despite a nifty .771 overall record spiced by various titles. He may have one now in sophomore Dick Garibaldi, home-grown product from Boston's West Roxbury section, who has a 2-1 record despite control problems . . . Northeastern and Boston University must have set a record of sorts in their recent game. Five runners were cut down at home plate—only 1 via force play . . . Brandeis is having its troubles. But the situation would be worse for the Judges if it weren't for frosh Pitcher Pete Larkin. He's accounted for both Brandeis victories.

Boston College won its first 5 games—compiling 50 runs, allowing just 9—before losing its first game. Colby defeated the Eagles, 4-2. Veteran righthander Bill Robinson, incidentally, has accounted for 3 of the 5 victories . . . GBL coaches are toying with the idea of installing free substitution of sorts (with certain limitations) for their junior varsity and freshman games. The purpose: To play more youngsters . . . Bill Hackbart, a senior out for the first time, has become Tufts' ace relief pitcher. He's been impressive in several appearances to become Coach Bob Meehan's No. 1 fireman.

Eddie Pellagrini, a major league veteran who ought to know, contends his entire BC starting team—including 3 pitchers (and one reserve, too)—are pro prospects. "I'm not saying all would make it," Pelly says. "Nobody knows that. I am saying that a dozen boys have what scouts look for in a prospect. And I'm saying at this point—now—that they have potential. If they continue to progress, they'll be definite pro prospects by the time they graduate."

Boston University, with an inexperienced squad of just 14, has become one of the GBL's top spoilers after a slow start. All of which supports Coach Harry Cleverly's contention: "In many ways, I prefer a small squad. Everybody gets a chance to play and, thereby, is happy. Too, everybody is improving by playing." . . . GBL coaches recently unanimously scored lack of summer leagues (because of pro stigma) as hurting college ball. Northeastern Athletic Director Herb Gallagher urged "an intelligent rewriting" of the amateur rule . . . Tufts Shortstop Joel Kelker, a major league prospect as a sophomore, appears to be rebounding nicely after a poor junior season.

Weather Could Determine Race

By JOE HEILING

AUSTIN, Tex. — Next to the Texas Longhorns, the weather is drawing the most attention down the home stretch of the Southwest Conference baseball race.

A sprinkling of rainouts plague the conference contenders, defending champion Texas (9-1) and revived Baylor (7-2). The big conflict between the 2 was wiped off the books, making for a tight-er-than-usual finish.

Counting those 2 games, Bay-lor and Texas each has 3 contests that may have to be made up to determine the eventual titlist. Baylor may also reschedule a game with TCU (5-6) and Texas one with Texas A&M (4-6).

The Longhorns absorbed their first defeat of the season, defensive mistakes contributing to a 12-8 setback as much as anything Brooke Army Medical Center could muster.

That was followed by loss No. 2 when TCU came from behind to administer a 9-8 licking.

The handwriting was on the wall for Texas, which went through 16 games without defeat before finally taking a haymaker on the chin. During one span of 5 games, the Longhorns were guilty of 23 errors which kicked in 18 unearned runs.

As a result, Texas is first in the standings but a dead last in conference fielding averages.

Baylor is the hottest team of the moment in the conference. The Bears have captured 9 straight decisions since their 26-7 shock treatment at the hands of Texas.

In addition, Coach Lloyd Russell's speedy Bears lead the conference in fielding, are second to Texas in team hitting, .326 to .325, and are the runaway leaders in stolen bases with 56 in 16 games.

Baylor, which started slowly by dropping 2 of 3 SWC decisions, is 15-2 for the season and its 8 regulars own a .342 batting average.

Six of the starters, headed by Third baseman Ronnie Goodwin's .476 season average, are belting at a .328 clip or better. Goodwin's suddenly-revived bat has fired up the Bears.

He's hitting an eye-popping .616 in the conference (13-for-21) and has the railbirds wondering whether he'll be an All-America first in football or baseball. Goodwin was the SWC's leading pass receiver last fall.

A series of sore arms on the Texas A&M pitching staff helped remove the Aggies from serious contention in the race while Texas personally took care of Rice hopes with a 3-game sweep by scores of 12-6, 8-0 and 11-6.

TCU, backed by the power hitting of Leon Baze and Cliff Justice, fell from the chase after early success due to the failure of its mound crew. Baze has rapped 10 homers—7 in the conference—while Justice is hitting .433 in league play and another outfielder, Buddy Iles, .410.

However, Southpaw Don Schmidt (3-2) is the Frogs' only pitcher of note. Schmidt has worked in 7 of TCU's 9 league outings, scoring wins over Rice, 5-0, and SMU, 7-1, and tripping A&M in relief.

Among the independents, Texas Tech wound up one of its best seasons ever with a 14-4 record. The Red Raiders obtained fine pitching from Mike Bromley and Roger Mac Evans and standout hitting from Dennis Willett (.431), Charles Harrison (.425) and Tommy Prichard (.409 for 22 at bats).

Sam Houston State appears ready to make another bid in the NAIA playoffs following a sweep of an important series with Sul Ross State, 12-10 and 4-1.

Balance Labeled No. 1 FSU Asset

TALLAHASSEE — Florida State's Seminoles, highest-ranked college baseball team east of the Mississippi River, are sailing along with a 19-5 record and an inside track for gaining the NCAA District 3 at-large playoff invitation.

But Coach Danny Litwhiler's hustling Tribe, ranked sixth nationally, hasn't reached its lofty position by the fruits of an unbeatable pitching ace or a phenomenal hitter.

The Seminole's pitching staff is led by righthanders Jim Daniel (6-1) and Frank Davis (5-1) and lefthander Ray McShane (4-1). Top hitters are Second baseman Jack Dull (.363), Infielder Hal Mangin (.361), Rightfielder Neil Martin (.365), and First baseman Doug Walker (.341).

Allen University Players Top Mid-Season NAIA Statistics

By EWELL RICHARDSON

KANSAS CITY — Allen University of South Carolina furnished the highlight of the mid-season statistical release prepared by the National Assn. of Inter-collegiate Athletics.

Top batting honor went to Outfielder Tommie Williams (.548); stolen base leadership to Floyd Youmans with 19; top strikeout mark to Bill Drummond, 19.3, for 9 innings and best team batting (.435). Allen won 15 of its first 16 games.

Other leaders:

Runs batted in — Tommy Agee, Grambling (La.) 30; doubles — J. E. Rowe, Georgia Southern, 11; triples — Wes Parker, Claremont-Mudd, 6; homers — Agee, 7; earned run average — Ken Davenport, Ouachita (Ark.) 0.65; earned run average, team — Glassboro (N.J.) State, 1.60; team fielding — East Carolina, .968; runs scored — Parker, 34; most walks (batter) — Darrell Butcher, Claremont-Mudd, 41.

The NAIA championship tournament will be held June 6-10 at Sioux City, Ia. Eight regional winners will participate in the double elimination meet.

Here are some early seasonal highlights as reported to Joe Axelson of the national office here:

Whitworth, the defending national champion, is off to a slow start in quest of another title. The Pirates from Spokane dropped 8 of their first 11 games.

No-hitters were fired by 3 right-handers. Gene Creek, Eastern Illinois sophomore, blanked Eastern Michigan, 7-0; Bill Maddox, Washburn (Kansas) freshman, whitewashed Kansas of the Big 8, 3-0; and Fred Herrman, Linfield (Ore.) senior, cut down Willamette, 6-0.

Another Linfield hurler, Gene Carlson, attained the ultimate in game-saving in an 11-inning, 7-4 victory over Pacific University. Carlson came on with the bases loaded in the bottom of the eleventh, made 1 pitch and it resulted in a triple play.

Two streaks were launched at St. Mary's of Texas. Catcher Bill Sebera hit in 18 straight games and the San Antonio school won 8 in a row.

Western Illinois has been dubbed the hard-luck team of the NAIA. Coach Guy Ricci's Leathernecks lost 7 games by a total of 10 runs and 4 of 5 extra inning tilts.

Jimmy Martin, East Carolina senior, has connected for 2 grand slam homers and 13 runs batted in.

Ansel Pierce, Findlay (Ohio) freshman, faced only 28 Wilmington batters in a no-hit performance. One man reached base on an error. Pierce also collected 3 hits in his college debut.

Dick Czyszczon, Millersville (Pa.) Teachers, stroked 3 homers, 2 doubles and 2 singles in 10 times at bat during a double-header against D.C. Teachers. He had 14 runs batted in. Freshman Harry Wirth added to the big day with a string of 7 consecutive strikeouts.

Dean Johnson, Westmar of Iowa, hurled 20 2/3 innings before allowing an earned run. On a less bright note, Westmar committed 13 errors in a 13-1 loss to Morningside.

Editorial Comment*Enter Your Work, Newsmen

One of the important assets in the rise in national publicity for college baseball has been the annual sportswriting and photography contests sponsored by the American Assn. of College Baseball Coaches.

With this issue the 1961 contest is underway. It is open to sportswriters and photographers on daily newspapers throughout the nation. The only qualifications are that stories must be on college baseball and that photos must be action photos of collegiate baseball games.

Although the Hollywood version makes a cigar-smoking extrovert out of every newspaperman, it is more often the case that the newspaperman sits back and fails to push himself. Many prize-winning entries were never sent in by newspapermen; they were entered in the AACBC contest by coaches and college sports information directors.

If you're a coach or a sports information director, begin scouting for outstanding entries for the AACBC contest. Clip the items and follow the instructions carried in an advertisement in this issue.

If you're a working newspaperman send along your entries; we still won't paint you as Hollywood does.

The Press Box*Cal Poly Outfielder Lauded

By ABE CHANIN
Collegiate Baseball Editor

Allen Hammerschmidt, a young California ball player, isn't a candidate for All-American honors this year.

But he ought to be a candidate for a sportsmanship award.

Jerry Miles of the Pomona, Calif., Progress-Bulletin, tells this story of an act of sportsmanship by Hammerschmidt in his newspaper column, "The Roundup":

"Allen Hammerschmidt, Cal Poly flyhawk, is an honest young man."

"In last week's game at Poly against Arizona State University, Roger Tomlinson's home run over the leftfield fence was first ruled a double by the base umpire.

"The umpire said he thought the ball bounded over the fence, but the Arizonans protested that it had sailed over the barrier in flight.

"The man in blue decided to ask Hammer-schmidt, the leftfielder. Hammerschmidt told him that it had cleared the fence, and not bounded over.

"The 2-run homer tied the game, 3-3, and the Sun Devils scored 5 runs in the next inning to win, 8-5.

"Just goes to show that winning isn't the only important thing in athletics, though many claim it is.

"Allen's honesty on such a crucial play truly characterizes sportsmanship, the foundation of all athletics."

Correspondent's Corner*Butler Boosts

By PAUL MOLONEY

For a considerable time Colorado State College's Coach L. C. (Pete) Butler has been a booster for summer intercollegiate baseball, and his ideas are feasible.

The collegiate baseball season in many areas is entirely too short, particularly in New England and the Rocky Mountains. Some teams are lucky to play 10 games. Meanwhile in the southern states, a 40- to 50-game schedule is common.

Annually, teams from the Rocky Mountain area make "spring training" trips to New Mexico, Arizona and California. Big 8 teams play in Texas, and Big 10 schools make southwestern trips, too.

Collegiate football and basketball seasons seem to get longer. The basketball season particularly at Colorado State College collides head-on with baseball. Every year prior to its southwestern trip, CSC must work out in its gymnasium after the basketball team has completed its workouts.

During the summer quarter Colorado State College's athletic facilities remain virtually idle. Butler, chairman of the school's health and physical education department, would say:

"Why not set up a summer intercollegiate baseball schedule with surrounding schools. Play weekend doubleheaders and/or night games."

Securing players would be a small problem. For instance, last summer C-State Catcher John Groninger and Outfielder Julie Yearling played with a Greeley town team while attending summer school. Other Bears in past have done the same.

Summer Ball

Butler suggested a player could take a full course of studies in the summer. In this day, an athlete often must remain at least one extra quarter or semester in school to participate in sports.

By extending the baseball program into the summer, the competition throughout the United States could be equalized. And more good players would have the opportunity to play.

The decay of minor league baseball is adding substance to the thoughts of Butler and of those sharing his views.

Baseball has found a firm booster in Bolaji Sanyaolu of the new nation of Nigeria. He is founding a baseball team at Lagos City College and is hopeful of developing a program throughout the Nigerian schools.

In promoting his hopes, the Lagos Daily Express wrote a comprehensive description of "the National Yankee sport."

Recently Sanyaolu wrote a friend in the U.S.: "There is a burning enthusiasm for the formation of a baseball club . . . This is an opportunity for a true and lasting athletic tie between the peoples of our country and those of the United States. We will use whatever communications we have to promote the game . . . but we need equipment and books."

Rules Violations Hurt Speed-Up Of College Game

By J. F. McKALE

The Second Base Coach

An official NCAA Baseball Guide has been published for the past 4 years. It is a fine effort. The rules are clear and well written. The Guide has promoted college baseball by publishing annual reviews from various parts of the country, along with vital statistics of the teams and players. All in all it is a very creditable publication.

The 11 members of the NCAA Baseball Rules Committee are head varsity college coaches. The 8 NCAA Districts are represented. The main purpose of having college rules is to speed up the game. We note little success along this line.

There are only 10 small differences between college rules and professional rules. In our opinion the college rules are not observed except in a very few places — the College World Series at Omaha is an exception.

Here are some of the occasions when the college rules are disregarded. (1) All batters must wear protective head covering. (2) Base coaches must be team members in uniform. (Some associations and leagues allow the varsity coach to work at third base. (3) The pitcher is restricted to 5 preparatory pitches at the beginning of an inning. The same rule applies to the relieving pitcher. (4) The batter must remain in the batter's box unless in the umpire's judgment there is a good reason for stepping out. (There always seems to be a good reason). (5) Pitcher will take his position in the ready circle the same as other batters.

We hope that the 11 coaches who are members of the Rules Committee are insisting that the above violations do not happen. The utter disregard of the rules in general makes us believe that the college rules should be enforced or eliminated. How do you stand?

In a game on April 23 between Kansas City and Cleveland, 40 players and 14 pitchers participated. The score was 10-8; the time of the game 3:52. (Some years ago Dale Carnegie wrote a book entitled "How To Win Friends and Influence People.")

A basketball fix spreads a cloud of suspicion over all other college sports. It also leads to severe criticism of the entire NCAA structure by those who talk too much and think too little. Our kudos go to the NCAA. We think their officials are doing a very creditable job, and believe this opinion is general among those who are familiar with the many difficulties with which this body has to contend.

The recent basketball scandals are very regrettable. We wish there were some statistics available on the players who were involved. How many of them could pass college boards? How many would be in college if it were not for basketball? How many had aspirations for the pro game? What college courses were they taking—outside of the PE department? How many are riding around in Cadets? What was their aptitude score?

Twenty-seven more days until Omaha.

Aparicio, Fox dazzle foes with speed, spunk and saves

CHICAGO—All-Stars Luis Aparicio and Nelson Fox are enroute to another banner year on defense.

Speeding left or right, coming up with clutch saves and key double plays, the spunky infielders are again vying for major league mastery of down-the-middle defense. Last year they sparked the Chisox to big league leadership in fielding percentage with .9819 and double plays with 175.

Year after year, major league stars like Aparicio and Fox rely on Wilson equipment exclusively to help them make the most of their natural ability. Wilson's master craftsmen—working with the Wilson Baseball Advisory Staff—design the shoes and gloves worn by these men and scores of other stars.

WILSON KANGAROO SHOES "LEAP" TO NEW POPULARITY

Aparicio's 51 Stolen Bases Speed The Trend to Wilson Baseball Shoes

The most exciting base runner in major league baseball is Luis Aparicio. Luis adds to his natural speed by wearing Wilson baseball shoes.

The uppers are crafted of prime, yellow back kangaroo; the lightest, toughest leather available. A new heel counter of polyethylene fits snug, never chafes, wears longer and will last the life of the shoe. Spikes are cadmium plated steel, secured to sole with solid copper rivets.

"When you get the step on another player," says Luis, "it can mean stealing an extra base or making a double-play. That's why I wear Wilson kangaroo shoes in every game."

WILSON A2000 GLOVE AGAIN LEADS THE LEAGUES

Revolutionary Design Favored by Foremost Fielding Stars

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES MAKE A2000 THE MOST POPULAR GLOVE IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Snap-Action design traps ball perfectly—with no rebound.

Grip-Tite pocket is the widest and deepest in the game today.

Triple-Lock Web adds inches more reach, extra control.

Triple-X lacing insures single action of the fingers.

Thumb and finger loops for added control and flexibility.

Leather lined throughout for comfort and durability.

"I wear the Wilson A2000," explains Nellie Fox. "This glove makes it a lot easier to dig balls out of the dirt, and hang onto hard-hit balls."

A revolutionary concept of glove construction resulted in the Wilson A2000 design. This now famous glove was immediately accepted by major league players as the outstanding glove in the game. A new Snap-Action design traps the ball with no rebound—releases it instantly for fast throws. Wilson uses specially selected glove leathers for greater flexibility, lighter weight, and perfect "feel."

An exclusive Triple-Lock Web provides more fielding control plus added reach. "I notice the rookies wearing the A2000," says Fox, "are pulling down liners like they were 8-feet tall."

Era Ends With Barry's Death

By GEORGE SULLIVAN

WORCESTER, Mass.—An era in collegiate baseball has ended.

It expired April 23 in a neat stucco colonial in nearby Shrewsbury when Jack Barry died of lung cancer 3 days before his 74th birthday. The dean of college baseball coaches—and winningest member of the lodge—was set to begin his 41st season as coach of Holy Cross College before illness confined him.

Selected "Coach of the Year" by the American Assn. of College Baseball Coaches after directing the Crusaders to the NCAA Championship in 1952, Barry compiled an amazing 625-153-5 record in 40 years at Mt. St. James.

J. J. Barry was many people. He was the guy who:

Made the jump from a Holy Cross (as a sophomore) to the Philadelphia Athletics in 1908.

Was the slick shortstop of the A's storied $100,000 infield, combining with Stuffy McInnis, Eddie Collins and Home Run Baker.

Was labeled by immortal Connie Mack as "my best shortstop ever."

Played 12 major league seasons, 6 with pennant winners (5 World Champions).

Managed the 1917 Boston Red Sox.

Played a major role in converting immortal Babe Ruth from a pitcher to an outfielder, housing The Babe at his Worcester home in the winter of 1917 to gear the transition.

Riopel Assumes Crusader Post

WORCESTER, Mass.—Albert D. (Hop) Riopel has been named baseball coach at Holy Cross college succeeding the late Jack Barry.

Riopel, an all-time athletic great at Holy Cross, had been associated with Barry for 32 years: 4 years as a player, 28 as an assistant coach.

Riopel had been acting head coach this season when illness prevented Barry from beginning his 41st season as coach.

Quit the majors in 1920 and returned to coach his alma mater at a reported $3,000.

Missed but one game (due to an ear ailment in 1958) in 40 years as coach.

Developed 30 major league players at Holy Cross, dozens more (including Hank Greenberg) coaching in the old Summer Blackstone Valley League.

Triggered New York Giant Manager Bill Terry's classic remark, "Is Brooklyn still in the league?" after Holy Cross had defeated the Dodgers in a 1934 exhibition.

Coached the theories: "The greatest thing baseball does for a college player is to develop in him a type of courage that gives him a certain mental poise" and "baseball teaches self-control, perseverance and self-respect."

Stressed training—sleep and rational eating—as important as practice.

Helped lure 30,000 fans to old Braves Field when Boston College and Holy Cross met in their rivalry.

Developed the "Knutte Rockne of Baseball" legend and a lasting impression on baseball.

On April 26, the baseball world paid its final respects to John J. (Black Jack) Barry. The Very Rev. Raymond J. Swords, S. J., president of Holy Cross College, celebrated a Solemn High Requiem Mass in St. Joseph's Chapel, overlooking the Fitton Field diamond.

Hundreds of mourners—including Jack's widow, the former Margaret McDonough—attended the services.

Interment followed in St. Rose Cemetery in Barry's native Meriden, Conn.

'Grandpa' Graves Leading Bulldogs

FRESNO — Younger members of the Fresno State College pitching staff like to needle Gene Graves by calling him "Grandpa" but the 28-year-old right-hander is having the last laugh—he's one of the winningest pitchers in college baseball.

Graves, who admits to his correct age only under considerable pressure, won his first 8 decisions for Fresno State this season. Only 7 will show in the NCAA record books, however; the eighth was against the San Diego Marines, Fresno's only non-collegiate opponent this year.

Graves hasn't picked on weak sisters to build up his record, either. One victory was a 5-hitter against the University of Arizona, then ranked No. 2 in COLLEGIATE BASEBALL's poll.

Among Gene's other victims have been highly-touted Notre Dame and Oregon State, which he beat with a 3-hitter. A willing worker, he was also credited with relief "saves" against UCLA (No. 13 nationally) and California (No. 13).

After 61-2/3 innings, he had 67 strikeouts and 25 walks and an earned run average of 2.04. Moreover, this record has been compiled with a pitching delivery that makes coaches wince.

"It looks like he's going to break his arm every time he throws," one observer shudders, but the unorthodox delivery is highly effective.

"I didn't really start pitching until I was in the Navy," Graves explains. "All I had was a pretty live fast ball and good control. I didn't have any coaching and the herky-jerky style just developed automatically."

"My junior college coach, Roy Taylor (College of Sequoias), tried to smooth me out but by that time I had been pitching that way so long, I couldn't change. Now Pete Beiden (Fresno State coach) figures the big windup and unusual motion is my biggest asset."

TEANECK, N. J.—The next time someone tells you that American youth today is soft, lazy and lacking in desire, just point to Fairleigh Dickinson University Pitcher Bill Carr as proof that it just is not true.

A burning desire for a college education and a love for baseball keeps Carr on the go for nearly 19 hours, 6 days a week these days.

Bill Carr is a married man with 3 children who wants a college education and loves to play baseball.

Carr's hectic day starts in Hoboken, where he leaves at 7 a.m. for the Fairleigh Dickinson campus located in Teaneck. A chemistry major, Carr is a sophomore and carrying a full classroom load.

Classes usually end for Carr around 2 p.m. when Bill heads for the Knights baseball diamond for practice or a game.

A righthanded pitcher, Carr in his high school days was a batterymate of John Romano, now ace backstop of the Cleveland Indians.

After baseball practice Carr jumps in his car and heads for a chemical research plant in Little Ferry, N. J. Bill puts in a full 8-hour shift that ends most nights around 2 a.m. There are some occasions when he works until 3 or 4 a.m. on a special project.

Carr's is a labor of ambition. He attends college because he wants to become a chemistry instructor. He plays baseball because he loves the game and hopes to win a scholarship. He needs that scholarship because of the added financial burden of acquiring advanced education while supporting a family.

Hotshot Cagers Pacing Richmond

By STEVE GUBACK

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A couple of basketball hotshots, who seem to be able to hit consistently in any season, are leading the University of Richmond in a surprise bid for the Southern Conference baseball title.

This was supposed to be a rebuilding year for the Spiders, who suffered grievous losses from last year's co-champions, but somebody neglected to tell Dick Haymore and Tom Booker.

Haymore, a shortstop, was pacing the club in RBI and batting with a lusty .425 mark while Booker, an outfielder, was just a shade behind with a solid .361. Due largely to this pair, plus Charlie Revere's sensational pitching (0.98 ERA), the Spiders were in first place with a 5-1 record to Furman's 6-2 as the league headed down the homestretch.

The big win for Richmond was a 21-11 free-swing over Furman in which Haymore and Booker behaved as if they had an old basketball score to settle. Booker, Richmond's high scorer during the cage season, cracked out 3 hits, including a grand slam homer. Haymore, a backcourt man in the winter, had a double and 3 singles.

Oddly enough, it was another basketball refugee, Virginia Tech's Lee Melear, who pinned the Spiders with their only league loss, 2-1, on a 4-hitter. Although only a sophomore, Melear had almost single-handedly kept Tech (5-3) in the pennant chase. Doubling as a pitcher and first baseman, the rookie from Louisville, Ky., had a 4-3 mound mark (1.61 ERA) while belting at a giddy 487 pace.

Melear easily is the season's most remarkable comeback case in the SC. Playing right field against Alabama, he crashed into a fence and missed 4 games. But he has returned to win 4 of his last 5 and chilled The Citadel's flickering title ambitions with a 5-2 8-hitter while getting 4 hits himself. Then to show that wasn't accidental, he belted out 4 more hits in a 21-5 romp over nationally-ranked Wake Forest.

Not all the SC heroes, however, were being performed by ex-players. Furman's lofty position was due chiefly to a quartet of 300-plus hitters—Larry Abbott, Phil Chewning, Gaines Mason and Benny Bierkowski—none of whom had any winter doings with the big roundball.

West Virginia, with a 4-2 league mark, also still had title possibilities and the Mountaineers' hero was Ed Tekavec, a .216 hitter last year and the poorest fielder on the club, who has done a remarkable turnaround—a .485 batting average and only 2 errors.

Tech Leads Loop

LAKE CHARLES, La.—Louisiana Tech continues as the leader in the Gulf States Conference with a 13-3 record. In second place is Southeastern Louisiana at 12-6.

Cincinnati, WMU Eye Playoffs

4 Other Clubs Also In District 4 Race

By BOB CULP

KALAMAZOO, Mich.—Two berths in the District 4 playoffs are almost sewed up as the mid-west season nears its end.

Western Michigan (10-4) and Cincinnati (12-2) appear headed for the championships of their leagues—Mid-American and Missouri Valley—and thus automatic berths in the 4-team tourney.

The other two slots will be filled at-large selections, which will be made May 21.

Best bets are a trio of Big 10 teams, Minnesota, Michigan and Indiana, plus the University of Detroit.

Minnesota, defending national champion, heads the Big 10 with an 8-1 record, while Michigan runs second at 5-1 and Indiana third with 6-2.

Overall, the Golden Gophers are 17-6, Michigan 14-5 and Indiana 13-3.

Michigan and Indiana split a doubleheader last Saturday to add confusion to an already tight race.

Coach Lloyd Brazil's Detroit Titans are 8-1 on the season, including a 3-2 squeaker over Don Lund's Michigan Wolverines.

Western Michigan, previously in a close Mid-Am race with Ohio, took things into its own hands by knocking off the Bobcats twice, 4-1 and 2-1. This put WMU at 7-0 in the league and Ohio at 5-3. Both are 10-4 on the season.

Glenn Sample and his Cincinnati Bearcats are riding the pitching arms of Bill Faul, Carl Boulard and Carmine Lemma in their quest for NCAA championship play in a second sport this year.

Leading the Cincy hitters is Catcher Ed Wolfe with a .490 average, including 20 RBI.

Abe Martin's Southern Illinois Salukis have taken a stranglehold on the Interstate Conference leadership as they seek their fourth straight title.

Southern Illinois bounced contender Northern Illinois 3 times to push its loop mark to 6-1, compared to Illinois State's 7-4 mark.

USC Meets Cal, Fresno Faces Aztecs

It's Do-Or-Die For Cal Clubs

By GEORGE WATSON

LOS ANGELES—A pair of do-or-die series featuring No. 1 rated USC vs. California and Fresno State, ranked second, vs. San Diego State highlight the 1961 collegiate baseball race.

USC, heading for a spot in the NCAA playoffs, invades Berkeley for a twin-bill on May 13 that will probably settle the CIBA race. The day before the Men of Troy have their work cut out for them at Stanford.

The invasion of the Bay Area for tilts against Stanford and Cal winds up the season for Rod Dedeaux's club, while George Wolfman's Bears have another week of action. Cal closes at home against UCLA in a twin-bill on May 20.

Fresno State travels to San Diego for 3 games on May 12-13 that in all probability will decide the CCAA kingpin.

The Trojans and Bears tied for the CIBA crown last year, but since SC had won 3-out-of-5 from Cal over the course of the season, Dedeaux's club got the nod for the NCAA playoffs.

The FSC and SDS finale brings together 2 teams that ran neck-and-neck last year. On the final day of the season Charlie Smith's Aztecs traveled to Fresno. Given little chance of winning, the Aztecs came through with a pair of victories to upset FSC and win the CCAA crown. Pete Beiden's charges are heavily favored to win this year.

Dedeaux's ambitions for another CIBA pennant rely on the heavy hitting of Larry Himes (.462), Art Ersepke (.391), Willie Ryan (.350) and Mickey McNamee (.350). McNamee is the leading home run hitter with 7.

The SC hurlers consist of Jim Withers (5-1, 1.74 ERA), Pete Kenney (4-2, 2.30 ERA), Larry Hankammer (4-1, 2.84 ERA), Jerry Merz (4-0, 1.17 ERA) and Ken Yaryan (5-2, 2.29 ERA). Dedeaux also has a pair of fine relief twirlers in Wally Wolf (1-0, 2.50 ERA) and Denny Anderson (2-0, 0.78 ERA).

Cal doesn't have the depth of SC, but Wolfman will bank on overall team play and the work of clever righthanders Bill Oakley and John Rabelo, plus sluggers Kevin Scarpelli (.379) and Bob Millinich (.320).

Beiden's hopes for a FSC pennant will depend on the sharp hitting of sluggers Bob Bonomini (.486) and Augie Garrido (.447) and Pitcher Terry Tackett.

In the SCIAC, Whittier and Redlands are also staging a red-hot battle for the flag. Whittier has a 9-0 record and Redlands is 8-2, but Chief Newman's Poets expect to replace defending kingpin Redlands as champs.

Cal Poly of Pomona continues its role as the number 1 independent. The Broncos have a creditable 19-7 mark for the season.

Remember '57 Is Cal Motto In CIBA Race

By BOB LAW

BERKELEY—"Remember 1957" is the slogan of California's Golden Bears as they give chase to perennial champion Southern California in the stretch drive of the California Intercollegiate Baseball Assn.

In 1957, a classy California team, including Earl Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles, seemed hopelessly out of the race. The Bears managed to overcome Santa Clara, 3-2, on Bob Puccinelli's 12th inning home run, then faced the final 4 games on the road.

In 9 days they copped 2 at Stanford and the same on consecutive days at SC's Bovard Field, the latter a night on to impossible feat.

That earned California a tie at 12-4 with Southern Cal for the CIBA title. The 3-1 series decision, which worked in Troy's favor when the L.A. Angels overcame a 3½-game Cal lead last year, gave California the NCAA playoff berth in 1957, and George Wolfman's club responded by convincingly going all the way to the national championship.

Though 24-8 for the campaign, California slipped to 6-4 in the CIBA, thus needing to match last year's 8-0 first-half in the second-half this time in order to catch Troy, barring an unexpected accident to the champs.

Of utmost importance to the Bears is that they sweep doubleheaders on consecutive Saturdays in the home Edwards Field ballpark, tomorrow against SC and May 20 against UCLA.

However, even Dutch Fehring, Stanford coach who heads the NCAA District 8 selection committee, admitted after California had dropped its fourth league verdict and SC had made it 3 straight over improved traditional patsie UCLA, "It looks pretty much like Southern California for the title again."

Not only is California having to chase SC with its talented 1-2 punch of Bill Oakley and John Rabelo, but there's the extraordinary sight of regular tail-ender UCLA in second position in what Fehring, concurring with Cal rival Wolfman, unequivocally proclaims, "The best balanced league in the 13 years I've been here."

In the Far Western Conference, Sacramento State quickly recovered from its early setbacks by the Cal Aggies to move onto San Francisco State's heels. A double-header triumph by the Hornets at Arcata stunned dangerous Humboldt State.

Wake Forest Deacons Move In Front In ACC Flag Race

By GRADY ELMORE

RALEIGH, N. C.—Wake Forest's Demon Deacons have moved out in front of the Atlantic Coast Conference championship race.

The Deacons defeated Clemson, 4-3, and South Carolina, 9-7, as Maryland felled league-leading North Carolina, 8-7, this past week.

North Carolina had a 6-game winning streak going until dropping a 10-4 decision to Duke. The same day Duke toppled the Tar Heels, Wake Forest edged N. C. State, 5-4, in 10 innings to draw even with North Carolina in league standings. Wake Forest is now 9-2 in the conference and 24-4 overall. North Carolina is 7-2 in the ACC and 12-4 overall.

Duke held on to third place in the league with 8-3.

For the Big 4 teams another tight race to the wire thus was in prospect. The ACC title usually has required post-season playoffs to decide in recent campaigns, and even last year when there wasn't a 2 or 3-way first-place deadlock, North Carolina had to go into extra innings on the final day of the season to win out.

The schedule seemed to have a most fitting climactic game on tap the last day of the conference season—North Carolina at Wake Forest May 16.

A pitcher who hasn't lost a varsity game, junior righthander Nicky Warren, and a heavy hitting newcomer, sophomore Outfielder Jim Mooring, have been pacesetters for North Carolina. The Tar Heels, who lost practically all of last year's regulars at graduation time, weren't rated at the top in pre-season speculation. But Mooring and other newcomers have provided the team with some heavy hitting this time, to go with Coach Walter Rabb's usual excellent bunting tactics.

The hitting, paced by Mooring's conference-leading average (.463 at last tabulation), represented a departure from past Tar Heel characteristics — strong pitching and excellent defensive play.

Warren won his first 5 decisions, to go with last year's 3-0 record.

Wake Forest also had 2 ring-leaders in Plemmons, the mound star, and Roger Coon, outfielder who transferred from Wilmington (N. C.) Junior College and proceeded to tie the ACC record for runs batted in (34) by the 5-4 win over State. Coon was hitting .398 going into that game.

State has been the hard-luck club of the campaign, and senior righthander Joel Gibson, 1 of 3 impressive hurlers for the Wolfpack (Wilson Carruthers and Bobby Conner are the others), has been the principal victim. Twice State has gone into an extra-inning game and lost by a roay at first base.

single run, and Gibson was the loser due to unearned scores.

State has been involved in half of the 10-1-run games out of the first 37 ACC tilts, but won out in 3 of them. Wake Forest was in 3 of those games.

One of the smallest players in the league, Wake's 5-8 junior left-hander Bob Muller, posted his third straight shutout when he sat down Virginia, 8-0, on a 1-hitter. A 2-out single by Bill Timberlake spoiled the closest bid to a no-hitter the ACC had seen. Muller made his record 5-1 with the victory.

Eagles Dedicate Field May 21

BOSTON—Boston College will dedicate its new diamond—Cmrd. John J. Shea Field—May 21 before a game with Fordham.

Cmrd. Shea was lost with the carrier Wasp in World War II. His heroism and a letter written just before his death to his young son won him national recognition.

The new U.S.S. Wasp will be docked at Boston and a detachment will participate in the dedication.

Kilroy Is Here

BOSTON—Bernie Kilroy, Boston College's slugging reserve outfielder, is getting a chance as a starter. Veteran Tommy Martin, the Eagles' All-American ice hockey player, has decided to concentrate on studies, and Coach Eddie Pellagrini is working Kilroy at first base.

Faul Strikes Out 24

CINCINNATI—Speedballing righthander Bill Faul broke his own University of Cincinnati strikeout record by fanning a phenomenal total of 24 batters on April 21 as Cincinnati downed Jacksonville Naval Air Station, 7-5, at Jacksonville.

Faul's own brief wildness was responsible for allowing the Navy flyers to score 5 times, although the Bearcats never trailed in the contest.

In his first start of the season Faul struck out 22 St. Joseph's (Ind.) batters to better the school mark of 19 that Faul and lefty Carmine Lemma had set last season.

Arizona Becomes First Team In Playoffs

TUCSON, Ariz.—The University of Arizona is the first to qualify a team for the 1961 NCAA baseball championships.

Arizona won 3 out of 4 games from its home-state rival, Arizona State, to post a 37-7 record. The NCAA sixth district selection committee selected Arizona for the playoffs and now is working on dates.

Texas' Longhorns, in front of the pack in the Southwest Conference, will meet Arizona in the playoff in Austin later this month, unless disaster hits the Texans.

More than 11,000 fans saw the 4-game Arizona-Arizona State series.

In Tucson the Arizona Wildcats walloped Arizona State, 10-2, and 7-2, in a day-night double-header that drew 7,007 and broke all local collegiate attendance records.

Then the next doubleheader was played in Phoenix. In a wind-blown battle of home runs the A-State Sun Devils won 12-10. There were 4 home runs for each club, most of them blown over the fence by wind gusts of over 25 miles per hour. Arizona came back in the nightcap to clinch the playoff berth by scoring a 3-1 victory behind the brilliant clutch pitching of Marv Dutt. Dutt is 7-0. Other leading pitchers are Gus Zeller, 9-3 and Gordie Bergthold, 7-3.

Top hitters for Arizona are First baseman Joe Skaisgir with .438, Shortstop Bob Maxwell with .401, Third baseman Ken Hunt and Second baseman Charlie Shoemaker at .357.

For Arizona State the leading hurlers in the Devils' 32-9 season are Roger Barnson, 9-2; Mike Tatum, 7-1; and Sterling Slaughter, 6-4.

Leading Sun Devil hitters are Outfielder Ed Littleton, .344; Shortstop Roger Tomlinson, .341; and Paul Runge, first baseman, .337.

Tomlinson set a new school record by hitting 10 home runs.

Ex-Colby Outfielder Plays Pro Football

WATERVILLE, Me.—Pete Cavari, former slugging center fielder at Colby College, has signed a professional football contract with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League.

The Pat contract calls for Cavari to play defensive halfback. He will join the team at Amherst, Mass., early in July for pre-season drills.

Cavari earned All-Maine, All-New England and All-East honors at Colby. He was a regular centerfielder on Coach John Winckin's baseball teams for 3 seasons.

Oklahoma State Hurlers Hard To Beat

By EWELL RICHARDSON

KANSAS CITY — When it comes to pitching, it's hard to beat Oklahoma State's curving crew.

In fact, after 17 games, nobody had been able to beat the Cowboys as they rolled merrily along toward a third straight Big 8 championship and possibly another spot in the College World Series next month.

For 15 games, the opposition was held to 31 runs, with 7 scored by Kansas in the 15th contest.

Consistently turning in sharp performances were Jim Wixson, Larry Ferguson and Littleton Fowler. The last named, a sophomore southpaw, hurled 21 runless frames before he was roughed up by Kansas. But the Cowpokes hitting served to advantage in that game and Fowler had no trouble breezing to a 17-7 verdict.

Coach Toby Greene credits Ray Bond, all-Big 8 catching selection in 1960, with keeping his mound staff in the groove. But much of the credit must go to Greene, who has turned out many mound notables, including Tom Borland, now in the majors.

Another factor in the Oklahoma State streak was the stick-work of Outfielder Jim Dobson, who is having a year comparable to his 1959 All-American showing.

On the darker side, however, the Pokes lost Bruce Andrew, sparkling second baseman, because of a shoulder injury. Andrew was feared out for the season.

Missouri, considered the only obstacle to a Cowboy pennant, lost valuable ground on the final Saturday in April when underdog Kansas State gained a split. That left M.U. 2½ games out of first place. Since rained out games can't be made up, Coach John (Hi) Simmons became concerned about the weather.

The Missouri-Oklahoma State showdown series is slated for Stillwater May 19-20.

The races in the Missouri Valley Conference have been settled quickly. Tulsa topped Wichita twice to lock up the western division honors. These are the only teams competing in that section.

Cincinnati, for all practical purposes, looks "in" as far as the eastern division teams are concerned. The Bearcats swept 3 from Bradley, considered their most serious rival. St. Louis and Drake were not figured strong enough to drop the Ohioans.

AREA NOTES: Two of the area small college titans met in a double-header at Kansas City and came out all even. Rockhurst and Omaha engaged in 2 extra inning games with the Hawks taking the opener, 4-3, in 10 innings and the Nebraskans grabbing the nightcap, 8-6, on an eighth inning homer by Bill Wachtler. It was the first Rockhurst setback after 7 straight victories. Both were considered potential entries in the NAIA national meet.

College baseball is very much alive in Omaha, where 1,500 turned out to watch the Indians beat crosstown rival Creighton, 10-5. Scouts turned out in droves at St. Louis to watch talented Missouri perform, but saw the Tigers yield on 5 hits to Ron Zetter of Washington U., 5-2.

Oklahoma City made it 6 straight and 7 of 9 with an 18-4 rout of the Oklahoma State Penitentiary team. Duane Hunt continued his sparkplug batting for the Chiefs.

Phillips University is threatening the long reign of Southwestern Oklahoma in the western division of the state loop. The Enid school picked up a full game with a sweep over Northwestern.

Oklahoma while Southwestern played a non-loop foe.

College of Emporia (Kansas) came up with its second double shutout of the season with a 4-0, 2-0 blanking of Washburn. Previously, the Presbies had whitewashed Sterling, 13-0, 8-0.

Wartburg pushed its Iowa Conference mark to 6-0 with a sweep against Iowa Wesleyan, 1-0, 10-1. Fred Mai's single plated Marv Ott in the final frame to give Jim Borchering the nod over Byron Johnson in a battle of 3-hitters.

Nebraska Wesleyan nailed down a 10-8 victory over Concordia (Neb.) in a hectic finish. On a wild pitch, the Concordia runner at third broke for the plate, but was thrown out when Catcher Ronnie Ehlers retreated to the screen to recover the ball and toss to Pitcher Phil Miller covering home.

Jerry Walker's grand-slam homer in the first got Oklahoma Baptist off to a good start, but the Bisons needed a Bob Irwin single in the ninth to edge Tulsa, 10-9.

Arkansas wound up a 10-9 season on a happy note with a 12-2, 12-3 sweep of Tulsa. John Abramcyk clouted a grand slam homer and Pat Foster went 4 for 4.

Wayne Thummel crimped Missouri's hopes a jolt with a 4-1 victory for surprising Kansas State. M.U.'s sophomore ace, Larry Bonham, suffered his first loss. Missouri came back to win the nightcap, 2-1, and stay in the race.

Iowa State, figured for a first division finish, dropped into the Bib 8 cellar after a double loss to Oklahoma. The Cyclones have been having pitching problems.

SHORT TAKES: Someone wrote there are only 3 factors in the Big 8 race: Oklahoma State, Missouri and the weather . . . Loras (Iowa) had a 7-game winning streak halted with a double loss to Whitewater (Wis.) State . . . Jon Bingesser, Washburn third baseman, is the Topeka school's first 4-letter athlete in many years. After helping to preserve Bill Maddox's no-hitter against Kansas with spectacular play at third, he won first place in the broad jump the next day in a track meet. His other sports are football and basketball . . . Lonnie Ehlers, Nebraska Wesleyan catcher, displayed his athletic versatility, sinking a hole-in-one on a 155-yard hole during a recent outing on the links . . . Ken Hutchinson, Wayne (Neb.) State hurler, is the son of Ira Hutchinson, former big league hurler with the old Boston Bees.

Fielder Saved By Trainer

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Outfielder John Meives is thankful Coach Hi Simmons of Missouri insists on taking a trainer on every road trip. It probably saved his life when he was injured in a freak playing accident at Lawrence, Kans.

In the second inning of a doubleheader, Meives and Outfielder Gene Orf collided while trying to catch a wind-blown fly to right-center off the bat of Kansas' Doyle Shick.

Orf's knee struck the diving Meives' flush in the face. The sharp blow fractured Meives' skull, broke his nose and fractured a cheekbone. When Meives fell to the ground he went into convulsions and was turning blue when Missouri's assistant trainer, Bill Chambers, raced onto the playing field.

Chambers quickly applied an oral screw between Meives' fast-closing jaws and pried them open. Then Chambers reached in and pulled Meives' tongue back into place in his mouth. The impact had caused Meives to swallow his tongue and he would have strangled if it weren't for Chambers' quick action.
